A little evening for two

Start with your actual energy. Make the plan yours.

A moment we can both look forward to

Our day, time, and spending limit

What we already have / what we need to arrange

Who will handle preparation and cleanup?

The five-minute version, if life changes the plan

An invitation is not an obligation. Either person can change the plan.
A lovely evening does not need to lead to anything else.

I would love a little time with you.

Fill this in, keep the practical details clear, and leave room for an honest answer.

YOU + ME

Would you enjoy...

When / where / how long:

Another day or a smaller plan is welcome, too.

YOU + ME

Would you enjoy...

When / where / how long:

Another day or a smaller plan is welcome, too.

Tiny-date ideas: one favorite song, tea at the table, or a short walk.
Choose what fits both people. Share the planning and the cleanup.

One question can open an evening.

Take turns. Listen. Either person can pass without explaining.

JUST US / 01

What ordinary moment with me would you happily do again?

Always okay to pass.

JUST US / 02

What is one small thing you are looking forward to?

Always okay to pass.

JUST US / 03

Which song belongs in the soundtrack of our story?

Always okay to pass.

JUST US / 04

What would make next week feel a little lighter?

Always okay to pass.

JUST US / 05

What is something you would enjoy learning together?

Always okay to pass.

JUST US / 06

What is one thing about us you want to make time for?

Always okay to pass.